

Academic Program for Bachelor Degree in Nursing Science

Program overview

Bachelor of Science in Nursing program at Shandong University is provided in both Chinese and English languages. The program in Chinese language is four-year and the one in English language is five-year. This program will ensure that students become professionals in the field of Nursing. The first and second years are almost entirely devoted to building a solid foundation of basic medicine and nursing knowledge. The courses, laboratory practice and shadowing experience in the third and fourth years will expand your knowledge of clinical nursing, community nursing, humanistic nursing care, research and evidence based practice. The final year will be almost devoted to internship in the university teaching hospital to gain first-hand bedside nursing experience. Upon completion of all the requirements, students will be awarded the title of Bachelor of Science.

Aim of the program

The program aims to prepare students for a range of patient care settings through our highly kinetic curriculum, featured simulation lab, team-based clinical practice, and extensive tutoring. We train our nursing students to be nursing experts, policy-makers, researchers, educators and leaders to make a difference of people's lives and shape the future of nursing field. Students who graduated from the program hold positions in healthcare settings and many others, such as pharmaceutical companies, law firms and government agencies.
